General

A cookie is a text file that is an identifier (a string of numbers and letters) that is sent between a web server and a web browser, where it is stored, every time the browser requests a page.

There are two types of Cookies – persistent and session. Session cookies expire when the web browser is closed. Persistent cookies remain stored on the web browser until the expiry date – unless deleted by the user. Cookies may be used to identify and track users within and returning to the website.
